Partner, Seattle Office
Fisher Phillips

Catharine Morisset is a partner in the firm's Seattle office. Her practice focuses on representing local and national employers in litigation in state and federal courts, on appeal, and also before the EEOC and similar state agencies in all aspects of workplace law, such as Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), Age Discrimination in Employment Act (ADEA), Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), Family and Medical Leave Act (FMLA), National Labor Relations Act (NLRA), Title VII, and similar state laws.

Catharine uses her litigation experience to work closely with clients to provide effective preventive counseling and workforce training. This includes regularly advising and training clients on drug tests, hiring, wage-hour compliance, leaves, reasonable accommodations, investigations, contracts, discipline, terminations, and layoffs. This includes helping new businesses, including cannabis retailers and growers, to navigate the multitude of state and federal laws applicable to the workplace for this unique emerging industry.

She is an accomplished trainer and speaker, and is often invited to address human resources and business leaders across the Pacific Northwest.
